We are Thankful for YOU!

There is an old song by Joe South, it's called Walk a Mile in My Shoes. It is about not judging others. The recurring line that hits home is, "Before you abuse, criticize and accuse; walk a mile in my shoes". A problem we have is judging others from a shallow look. We don't know what others are going through. Or, even if we do, we don't know the depths of it. Quite often, when we see people acting a certain way, we come to a conclusion and decide how they should be acting. But that is impossible. We haven't walked in their shoes. We don't know the burden they've carried. We don't know the pain they may be suffering. We don't know the heartaches and heartbreaks that have brought them to their place on the journey.

Let's go through a few examples. From time to time we will come upon a person who is lashing out. They aren't lashing out at us particularly. We just happen to be there for an incident. People don't act that way for no reason. They may be going through a stressful time, and aren't coping well with their frustration. Caregivers are a case in point. Having to tend to the sick (and dying) is difficult mentally, emotionally, and physically. It saps our strength on many fronts. We need to be patient and understanding with them through those times. They don't need to be judged...they need strength and encouragement.

Another example is the person who seems to always have a negative attitude. This isn't a short-term thing. It is something that is ingrained in a person. These folks can be difficult to deal with, and we may find it easier to just avoid or ignore them. What we are seeing in this is pain. We don't know what has brought this person to that attitude. Have they been criticized to the point where it is hard for them not to be defensive or contrary? Have they been abused to the point where trust is the hardest thing for them? That person doesn't need judgment, that person needs healing.

We all face problems in life. When it is our turn, we expect others to be patient, kind and understanding. However, we don't see it that way when another person goes through their trials. Why, they should just buck up and straighten out. We don't see it that way for ourselves. Because we know that others have not walked in our shoes, they don't understand the trials and tribulations we endure. As if we are the only ones with true problems. So, compassion for me, criticism for thee.

That is not the way it works. We need to be Christ-like in our attitudes and actions toward others. We need to look a little deeper into the situation. We must do unto others as we would have done to ourselves. Again, we all want to be understood, loved and cared for. If we have that expectation of others, we should have that expectation of ourselves. Think of the difficulties you have faced. Then think about the people that showed you kindness and consideration through those things. It made it easier to endure our trial, it helped us overcome pain and heartbreak, it gave us hope. So, when you come upon someone acting in in any of these ways, remember there is much more to the story than you see. Take the time to look a little deeper. You don't know all that has transpired. You may find someone who is a wonderful person, just trying to cope. Just like you have done or are doing. You can't walk in someone else's shoes. But you can be of help to someone who is stumbling.

Love and Blessings,

Pastor Nick

Mission Notes for November

I mentioned last month that the Walugembes are back in Uganda. We received an update from them on October 1, 2020 that they were out of quarantine now and back in their own home. They had many problems with their house that required repairing but all has now been taken care of and they are getting back into ministry.

I also want to give an update on the Angel Tree Ministry. We are participating in it again this Christmas and we have again asked for 20 children from Angel Tree and also 10 children from our school. We received our names this week, and will be getting that information out to you real soon.

This may be a bit of an ambitious project but with the Lord's help and with the help of everyone, together we can accomplish it.

Thanks to everyone.

Moment

The reason that some of us wait for the perfect time to do something may be because we are trying to wait until there is no risk. It is human nature – we want to eliminate any and all risk of bad things happening.

If we can see the vision of what God wants us to do for His Kingdom, for our community and for the world, we can experience the vision of our gifts answering the call of prayers, presence, gifts, and service.

We can open the eyes of our souls and see God's work being done.

Generous people do not give in expectation of receiving a material return from God. A Christian gives from a thankful heart for God's blessings, even when physical or economic life is difficult.

When we give generously, we show that our faith matters, and the church matters. When we give our money and other resources, we make a statement about whom we trust and who we're willing to make sacrifices to.

Thank you for giving generously to our church during this trying time.

A Note from Barb...

For those of us who loved Mr. Rogers:

An eccentric blind man nicknamed Joybubbles reportedly loved Mr. Rogers so much he listened to 10 hours of the TV show daily until he'd heard them all. One night, when Joybubbles was in a kind of awake dream state, he said Mr. Rogers visited him and offered to teach him how to pray.

Joybubbles protested that he couldn't pray because he always forgot the words. To which Mr. Rogers said not to worry; the prayer he'd teach had only three words. "What kind of prayer has only three words?" Joybubbles asked.

"Thank you, God," Mr. Rogers replied.

We have all been blessed with so much. Remember this prayer every day....."Thank you, God!"

Happy Thanksgiving!
